JACKSONVILLE, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 9, 2025-- Continuing its track record of payment solutions excellence, FIS[®] (NYSE: FIS) has been recognized as a leader in the Omdia Universe: Payment Hubs, 2024-25 report. This prestigious industry ranking underscores the company's dedication to unlocking financial technology that seamlessly and efficiently moves money between the world's banks, consumers, businesses and beyond.

Omdia defines a payment hub as a payment solution that enables financial institutions to process multiple payment types and centrally manage the orchestration process, which can be deployed as standalone solutions.

The Omdia Universe report evaluates payment hub solutions across several critical dimensions, including core functionality, architecture, solution integration, security, and innovation. According to the market analysis, FIS stood out for its robust capabilities, including real-time processing, cloud-native architecture, and comprehensive analytics and reporting tools.

Chris Como, general manager, cards and money movement at FIS, commented, "We are thrilled to be recognized by Omdia as a leader in its latest Payment Hubs report. This achievement reflects our unwavering commitment to innovation and excellence in financial technology across the money life cycle. By combining our deep industry expertise and leading-edge technology, we are empowering our clients to navigate the complexities of the modern payment landscape and helping bring money into harmony."

FIS received the best-in-class score in the Strategy & Innovation and Broader Functionality categories, having demonstrated strong alignment of its Payment Hubs offering with marketplace demands as well as its ongoing efforts to innovate. With its more than 50 years of payments expertise, FIS continues to innovate across the money life cycle and is developing solutions that support new payment methods.

Ouliana Smith, senior research analyst, financial services at Omdia, commented, "FIS has demonstrated exceptional capabilities in adapting to market demands and regulatory changes, providing financial institutions with the tools they need for payment transformation. FIS' strategic focus on innovation and customer-centric solutions has earned it a well-deserved position as a market leader."
