JACKSONVILLE, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 14, 2025-- FIS® (NYSE: FIS), a global leader in financial technology across the money life cycle, just completed a successful year of advancing how the world banks through the launch of several key products and technology milestones. Despite banks and financial institutions of all sizes continuing to innovate, they struggle to keep pace with the ever-increasing velocity of customer expectations for advanced, frictionless capabilities across their multitude of digital channels and back-office operations.

Throughout 2024, FIS' primary research illuminated consumer demand for more advanced banking experiences, including more robust security, access to digital banking apps, and support systems that help relieve their financial anxieties. The company's successes over the past year represent its unwavering commitment to helping its clients deliver more impactful banking experiences to their customers.

FIS' decades of investments in banking capabilities provides its clients with best-in-class assets and technologies, together with modernization options that fit institutions of all sizes and deployment preferences.

The company's strong position is supported by its global client base who rely on FIS' banking and payment capabilities to service their customers and grow, run and protect their businesses. Client institutions range from large financial institutions and regional banks to community institutions and direct digital banks, the latter being the fastest deposit growing institution type in the U.S. Over the last 12 months, the company has increased its core market share, with several marquee new client wins across banks of all asset sizes.

Expanding Capabilities with New Solution Launches

Helping clients accelerate delivery of open banking capabilities to their customers, FIS launched its Open Access platform in 2024, which is designed to allow customers of FIS client banks and credit unions to securely share their financial data with a greater number of financial institutions and apps.

The company also released Digital One™ Flex Mobile 6.0 a new mobile banking application that combines slick, intuitive interfaces, with rich functionality and industry-leading security features to advance the primary interaction channel – mobile banking – between a bank and its customers.

The November 2024 acquisition of Dragonfly Financial Technologies delivered new cash management capabilities for large and complex businesses, which the company is bringing to market through its Digital One Commercial offering.

And supporting speedy delivery of open banking capabilities, FIS also launched Enterprise Disbursements, a new pay-by-bank solution for business and consumers.

"To advance the business of banking, you have to unlock new technologies and capabilities and deliver them at scale," noted FIS CEO and President Stephanie Ferris. "Few companies can match the scale FIS brings to market. That gives us a tremendous advantage in helping our clients succeed in the business of banking today at the same time they're ramping up for growth and success tomorrow."
